SUSAN WARTELL ENDOWED STUDENT TEACHER SCHOLARSHIP

Recommendation

It is recommended that the Board of Governors approve the establishment of the Susan Wartell Endowed Student Teacher Scholarship in the College of Education.

This fund is established to recognize scholastic achievement, encourage continued progress and provide assistance to students on the path to becoming a teacher by offering them additional financial support as they complete the student teaching/clinical experience requirements of their program in the College of Education.

Background

Susan Wartell writes:

In the fall of 1961, after two years of teaching, first in New York, and second in Berkley, Michigan, I decided to enroll at Wayne State University. I was earning $4,500 a year and I knew that a master's degree would help raise my pay. For the first two years I would teach from 8:30 to 3:30 and then dash down to Wayne State for two classes, arriving home at 10:30 p.m. The next three years were dominated by motherhood, but in the spring of 1966 I received a master's degree in education with a major in elementary guidance and counseling. My parents flew in from Syracuse, New York for graduation, proud as can be. I was the first member of our extended family to earn a graduate degree.

My undergraduate degree from the University of Michigan was paid for by an aunt, and my graduate degree from Wayne State was paid for by my earnings from teaching. At that time, I made up my mind to donate to both schools when I could afford to, especially since the cost of college has become prohibitive for many. I know that student teaching is a busy, hectic time for students and I hope that my donation will help ease their financial pressure.

This fund is established with a pledge of $25,000 from Susan Wartell.

Endowment Amount

$25,000

This fund is established to recognize scholastic achievement, encourage continued progress and provide assistance to graduate students in financing their education at Wayne State University.

Jack Weinstein grew up in Saginaw, Michigan and received a juris doctorate from the Wayne State University Law School in 1965. She was selected for sponsorship by the Ford Foundation to pursue a master of arts in teaching, which she earned from the university in 1966. Although the two were at Wayne State at the same time, they met after they had both graduated and married in 1971. Their son Benjamin was born in 1976 and daughter Sarah in 1979. Weinstein practiced law and his wife was active in the school system throughout their children's childhoods. They moved to Ann Arbor in 1997 where Jack continued to practice law and Fran became very involved in the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute.

In 2017, Ben and Sarah commemorated Fran's 75th birthday and Jack's 50+ years of practicing law by creating the Jack and Fran Weinstein Family Scholarship Fund to acknowledge and honor their parents, who support learning during all stages of life. When Jack and Fran learned of their gift, they graciously offered to match their children's generous donation to provide a larger endowment.

This fund is established with a pledge of $25,000 from Ben and Sarah Weinstein and a pledge of $25,000 from Jack and Fran Weinstein.
